THE SEASON AT HAMPTON.

The season at Hampton beach will be formerly opened Memorial day and with fair weather a large crowd is certain of attending. A baseball game between the Exeter and Portsmouth teams will be played in the afternoon on the oval in the rear of the Casino, and as the teams are said to be evenly matched the game should be closely contested. Superintendent McKel of the Exeter, Hampton and Amesbury street railway has engaged two bands for the day, thus affording continuous music. The Metropolitan of Haverhill, Mass., and the Portsmouth City band will give the concert, and at 4 o'clock will be heard in a consolidated concert. Numerous and extensive improvements have been made at the beach, and with those which have been planned and are now under way Hampton is assured of becoming an ideal summer resort of the New England coast.

HARBOR FRONT NEWS.

Arrived, May 29—Schooners Emu, (British) St. George, with lumber for local dealers; Mary E., (British) Parramore for New Haven with lumber; William Duran, Calais for Boston with lumber.
Sailed, May 29—Steamer Charles F. Meyer, Baltimore, towing barge Juniata for Philadelphia.

Foster's predictions of a cold, wet May have been fully verified.

AN ORDER FOR 11,000 VOTES

The Herald's Pan-American Contest is Closing Lively.

Only Three More Days, After Today, of the Printing of Votes.

The Last Votes Must Be in this Office by 7.30 O'clock on Wednesday Evening, June 5th.

There was an order today for Pan-American votes that went ahead of the order received on Tuesday, by two thousand votes. This biggest order yet was for 11,000 votes for some favorite of the purchaser. Who these votes will be cast for, we are of course pledged not to mention, but they will fat up the list of some one who wants to go to the exposition free of expense on a popular trip.

There are but two more days, after today, for the printing of the votes, the last votes to appear in the Herald of Saturday, the limit of the time when votes can be received at the Herald office being at 7.30 on Wednesday evening, June 5. Orders for extra votes should be placed as soon as possible.

Mr. Hanscom is the gainer by the voting today and the letters that have been received with the ballots tell who they came from. The list at the closing time at noon today is as follows:

John F. Leary, A. O. H.,	2596
Charles W. Hanscom, K. G. E.	2544
Charles D. Varrell, Sagamore S. F. E. Co.	1958
William S. Fernald, Chemical Engine Co. No. 5,	1459
Harold N. Hett, Portsmouth Bicycle club,	1261
Col. John P. Tibbetts, Gen. Gilman Marston command, U. V. U.,	1083
Dennis J. Lynch, Kearsarge Engine Co.,	973
Edwin F. Rowe, Warner club	82
Charles H. Kehoe, M. H. Goodrich Co.,	56
John Ham, W. J. Sampson, H. & L. Co.	21
Fred Manson, M. H. Goodrich Co.,	17
W. J. Kehoe, P. C. C.,	16
Capt. Horace E. Peverly, Co. B, N. H. N. G.,	12
John A. Harmon, assistant engineer, P. F. D.,	12
George Jones, Kearsarge Engine Co.	7

From An Eagle.

PORTSMOUTH, May 28, 1901.
Editor of Herald: Find enclosed 54 votes for Charles W. Hanscom from a brother Eagle who has been working for him since the start. Come, brothers of the Golden Eagle, just give him a lift at this time and he will surely be a winner.
A BROTHER EAGLE

More For Mr. Hanscom.

PORTSMOUTH, May 28, 1901.
Editor Herald: Enclosed find 70 votes for Mr. Charles W. Hanscom. Hope he will be one of those that will go.
BEATRICE BETTON.

The conditions of the contest are as follows, a most liberal offer:
The Portsmouth Herald agrees to send three residents of Portsmouth, who are either members of the Portsmouth fire department, a social club or of some secret society, to the Pan-American exposition, pay all their expenses from the time they leave, until they return, including a week in Buffalo, with board and lodging and admission to the exposition daily.

This offer beats anything ever announced by any newspaper in New England, and is so far above the expense and interest of a trip to the national inauguration that it cannot be mentioned in the same class.

The contest will not be restricted to gentlemen but will be open to any lady who is a member of the various secret societies or auxiliary societies in Portsmouth.

The trip will include stop over privileges en route and returning and first class accommodations will be provided. In order that every detail of the grand tour may be properly looked after, the publishers will either send an agent in advance or with the party to make arrangements.

Everybody knows that the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo is to be grander and greater in every way than the World's fair and the visit will be the event of a lifetime.

The contest opened on Monday, March 4, when the first ballot appeared and which will appear daily until June 1, next. The last ballot to appear on the latter date, and the three persons having the greatest number of votes will have the grand privilege that has been offered. The last ballots must be received at the Herald office by 7.30 p. m., on Wednesday June 5, and the results of the contest will be announced at the earliest possible date.

This is an opportunity never before equalled in this section of the country and well worth the attention of everyone eligible for such a trip. Vote early and vote often. Elect yourself.

BRUTAL MURDER.

Four Italians Stab Foreman To Death.

He Discharged Them Last Saturday Night, At Greenwich, Conn.

Murderers Apprehended In Port Chester, N. Y., Early This Morning.

GREENWICH, CONN., May 28.—Jacob Larsen, foreman in charge of the work men who are putting in the new borough sewer, was found dead a mile from town tonight, at half-past nine o'clock. He had been stabbed. He was murdered by four Italians whom he had discharged. The murder was particularly brutal, Larsen being stabbed in the abdomen and nearly disemboweled.

Arrested In Port Chester.

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., May 29, 2.00 A. M.—Sheriff Fitzroy of Greenwich, Conn., at half-past one o'clock this morning arrested here four Italians, charged with the murder of Jacob Larsen in Greenwich, Conn., last evening. The men were found in an Italian lodging house and were identified by the superintendent of the sewer work in Greenwich as the men whom Larsen, as foreman, had discharged last Saturday night. The Italians showed fight when taken into custody.

FOUGHT FOR HIS LIFE.

"My father and sister both died of Consumption," writes J. T. Weather-wax, of Wyandotte, Mich. "and I was raved from the same frightful fate only by Dr. King's New Discovery. An attack of Pneumonia left an obstinate cough and very severe lung trouble, which an excellent doctor could not help, but a few months' use of this wonderful medicine made me as well as ever and I gained much in weight." NAVAL ORDERS.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Lieut. H. H. Ward, for several years assistant to Admiral Crowninshield in the navigation bureau, has been ordered to inspection duty in connection with the new torpedo boats Lawrence and McDonough, with the ultimate purpose of becoming commander of the former. Lt. Chas. Webster has been ordered to the position formerly held by Lieut. Ward, and will be assisted by Lieut. O. B. Barnes, who is detached from the Lancaster. Commander E. B. Tansig is detached from command of the York town, on the Asiatic station, and ordered home. Commander W. Swift is ordered from the Princeton to command the Yorktown, and Commander J. R. Selfridge is detached from the Cavite station and ordered to command the Princeton.

PROBABLY MURDER.

Boston, May 28.—Alessandro Seostito, twenty-eight years old, was shot and probably fatally injured, at the North end tonight, by Giuseppe Pappasalo, twenty-two years of age. The victim has been in this country only a week. The shooting is the outgrowth of an old feud in Italy. Seostito is at the Massachusetts General hospital, where it is said that he is in a dying condition. The Italian who shot him is under arrest.

VICTIM OF A RIFLE.

NARDEN, OKLAHOMA, May 28.—At a picnic of a young people's society here today, a group picture was about to be taken when Miss Nora Wolstein asked Miss Bishop to point a rifle at her, to increase the effect of the scene. Miss Bishop did so and accidentally discharged the rifle. Miss Wolstein was instantly killed, being shot through the heart.

KILLED BY DYNAMITE.

WILKESBARRE, PENN., May 28.—Three Italians employed on the construction of the new electric road between here and Scranton were instantly killed this afternoon by an explosion of dynamite.

SUICIDE IN A CHURCH.

STAMFORD, IND., May 28.—Miss Maggie Long, the fourteen-year-old daughter of John Long, committed suicide in the Methodist church here today. She belonged to the choir and went to the church alone this afternoon for organ practice. She took a revolver with her and shot herself through the heart. Her body was found lying on the pulpit platform. On the altar was a letter that she had left, in which she gave directions for her funeral and burial.

BURNED TO DEATH.

BELLE CENTER, OHIO, May 28.—The two children of Mrs. Frank Sickler, aged two and five years, were burned to death in their home tonight by a gasolene explosion. In trying to save them, the mother was fatally burned.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Forecast for New England: Cloudy Wednesday, with showers, cooler except in eastern Maine; Thursday cloudy, rain in southern portions, continued brisk northeast winds.

PRIVATE ASSEMBLY.

A number of Portsmouth people attended and conducted a private dancing assembly in the town hall at Rye, on Tuesday evening. There were about forty couples in the party and they chartered two trolley cars for their exclusive use. One was given to the smokers, while the ladies and those gentlemen without cigars rode in the other. They returned to town a little after midnight. The dancers lunched on lobster and other good things, at Rye.

WHIST PARTY.

There were eight tables at the Warner club's whist party on Tuesday evening. The prizes were distributed as follows: First, a turkey, H. B. Philbrick, (58 points,) who was tied with J. S. Parker and won the cut; second, shoulder of veal, Mr. Parker; third, smoked shoulder, John Thompson; fourth, two mackerel, W. F. Micoit; booby, bottle of pickles, John Hardy. The next party will be held next Monday.

The musicale given by Miss Rita Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Wallace, at her home on Deer street, Tuesday evening, proved a very enjoyable affair for all who were present.

MUNICIPAL.

Special Aldermanic Session To Dispose Of Sundry Junk Dealers.

A special session of the board of mayor and aldermen was held on Tuesday afternoon at half past four o'clock, for the purpose of taking action on applications from junk dealers for a license. All the members were present, except Ald. A. N. Wells.

The mayor stated the object of the meeting, and some discussion ensued in regard to the number of licenses which should be granted.

Ten applications for a license were presented, and Lawyer George F. Parker appeared for nine of the applicants.

City Solicitor Emery explained the city ordinance relative to junk dealers, and City Marshal Entwistle also addressed the board in reference to the applicants.

Ald. Phinney offered the following resolution, which was carried:
"Resolved. That all the petitioners be granted a license who are American citizens."

Ald. Phinney asked the mayor if any arrangement had been made for a band concert, Memorial evening on Market square. The mayor said nothing had been done in the matter, whereupon Ald. Phinney moved that the mayor be authorized to employ a band that evening, between eight o'clock and ten. The motion was carried.

Then the board adjourned, on motion of Ald. Vaughan.

Summer vacation plans are now receiving the attention of many people.

A LETTER FROM JEFFERSON

It Shows That He Was a Good Provider For His Household.

Mrs. Sara T. Kinney has in her collection of treasures an autograph letter of Thomas Jefferson. The date is blurred, and the address is mutilated past recovery. Here is the letter.

MONTICELLO, Oct. 9, 1794. (?)

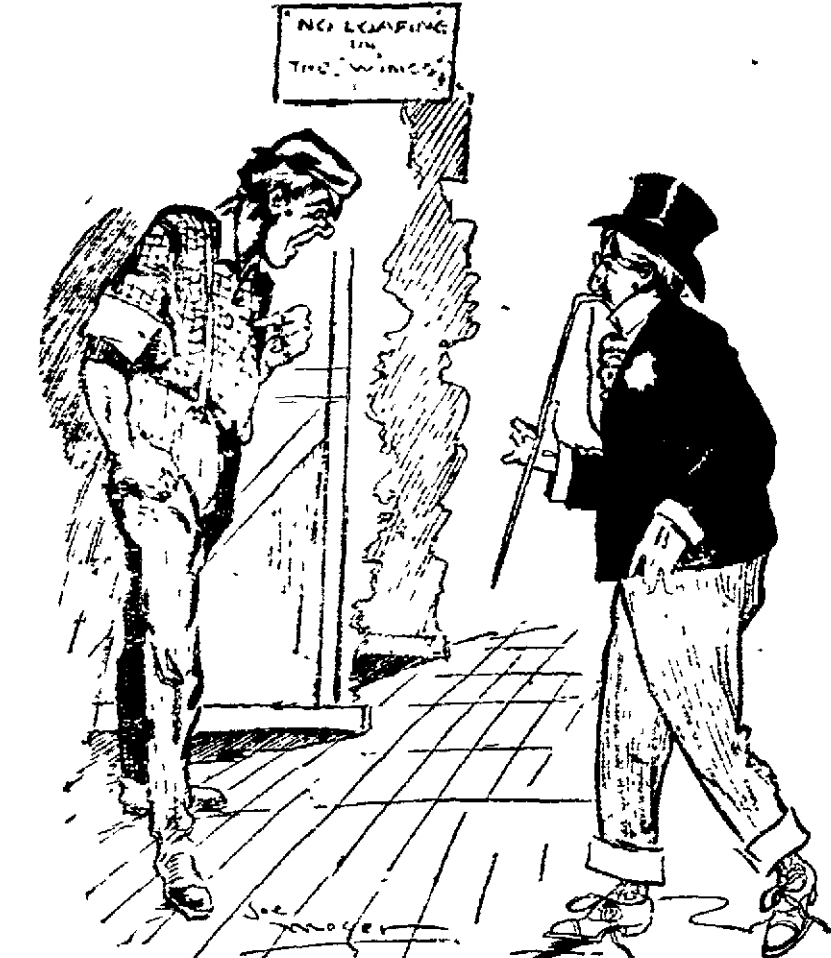

Dear Sir—In a letter of the 17th ult. I acknowledged the receipt of your favor of the 10th and 27th of August, and within a few days at most the several articles you had been so kind as to forward to me came to hand safely in good condition and to my perfect satisfaction. As the freezing of the Delaware might prevent my getting my supplies of groceries for the first quarter of the ensuing year were I to delay sending for them, I intimated in my last letter that I might probably trouble you with a new application very shortly. This I take the liberty of now doing, having noted on the back hereof the list of articles desired. When I wrote you before, I did not suspect my stock of oil to be so low. It is now entirely out, and therefore I am obliged to ask an immediate supply of three gallons till yours shall arrive. I have written to an old acquaintance, Mr. Barnes, in 3d street, from whom I used to take tea in Philadelphia, to ask the favor of you to receive some which I have desired of him and to pack them up with the other things and have ventured to say to him that you would be so good as to pay his bill, which may be between 6 and 10 or 12 dollars. I will pray you to have everything very securely packed, as without this they are sure to be pilfered by the sailors and wagons. As soon as you can send me a note of the amount by post. I will by the return of the post inclose you a draught for it. Your kindness not only encourages me in giving you this trouble, but has forbidden me to apologize for it. I am still confined with my rheumatism, tho' much mended. I am divided between two enterprises for the next year, the going on with my house or rebuilding my mill, but whichever I undertake should you receive from Italy a workman who understands the laying and cutting of stone I would be glad of him on reasonable wages—that is to say, on wages reasonably better than those of Italy, but not such as are given in Philadelphia. Our languid circulation of money in this country would not permit that, and, furnishing him the subsistence, he would not need it. I am, with great esteem, dear sir, your friend and servant,

THOS. JEFFERSON.

Sixty pounds single refined sugar.
One hundred pounds best brown sugar.
Eighty pounds best Indian coffee (not the green).
Twenty pounds chocolate.
One hundred pounds rice.
Fifty pounds of biscuit (of the kind called crackers).
Twenty pounds raisins.
Ten pounds bitter almonds.
Three gallons olive oil.
Six bottles of mustard (they are generally small).
Three pounds black pepper.
One pound allspice.
One-quarter pound nutmegs.
One-quarter pound cloves.
One-quarter pound cinnamon.
One-quarter pound ginger.
Thirty gallons of treacle (observe that this is different from molasses and superior).
Twenty-five pounds of the tongues and sounds of the codfish pickled. This article is to be had usually at only one place in Philadelphia, I believe. Mr. Pett, my ancient maître d'hôtel, can point it out. He lives with Mr. Cassions.
Three pounds of hair powder and two or three rolls of good hair pomatum.
P. S.—The want of the article of oil renders me anxious to receive this invoice as soon as you can find a vessel coming to Richmond. Be pleased to address them as usual to Colonel Gamble.—Hartford Courant.

Colds and Insurance.
A leading insurance journal says somewhat pathetically that colds cost life insurance companies $1,000,000 a month. What they cost those who catch the colds is of course quite beyond cavil or reclaim, but the paper goes on to warn the careless who happen to own policies how to be able to keep on paying premiums a while longer. The gist of the advice is to avoid exposure, keep out of drafts and light a cold from start to finish. "The grave is still very hungry," it adds. "Besides, the life insurance companies would like to save a million a month." The highest medical authority in journalism gives the following: "The philosophy of prevention is to preserve the natural and healthy action of the organism as a whole and of the surface in particular, while habituating the skin to bear severe alterations of temperature by judicious exposure and natural stimulation by pure air and clean water and orderly habits of hygiene and health."—Saturday Evening Post.

As Bright as He Was Bad.
He was a charming little fellow of 1, pretty in his ways, good to look at, but as naughty as could be. He sat on the bottom step kicking his fat little legs and refusing utterly to obey his father, who had told him to go up stairs several times in increasing degrees of severity. After a few minutes of this clashing of wills his exasperated parent picked him up somewhat suddenly, carried him and sat him down very firmly on a chair in his room and then went out and shut the door. Silence reigned; not a sound from him for at least half an hour. Then the door opened, and a sweet little voice called out: "Father, have you got over your tantrum yet, for I should like to come down?"—London Tit-Bits.

IN THE WINGS.

Chappie—Can I see Miss Amy Fewclothes? She's in the ballet, don't you know.
Stage hand—Now, she's busy now; if you've got a message for her, just give it to me, I'm her grandson.

MEN AS THEY PASS.

Senator Culberson of Texas is a distinguished and conspicuous member of the fraternity of baseball rooters.

George W. Phillips is the latest liability giver. He presents a $50,000 building to his town of Homer, N. Y.

Lord Edward Cecil, son of Lord Salisbury, is a brevet lieutenant colonel at 34, thanks to his good work at Mafeking.

Ex-Mayor Armstrong of Nashville, Ind., has just been taken to the poorhouse. He was elected twice, served six years and left office poorer than when he went in.

Policeman Clarence Routh of New Orleans has been offered $1,500,000 a land which he owns in the Texas oil region. He refused the offer and stays on the force, but keeps his eye on his hundred acres.

Ex-Governor Hogg of Texas had a reputation for great muscular strength in his youth. He is said to have lifted hogsheads, thrown pig iron bars a great distance and thrown an angry bull over a wire rail fence.

Senator Burrows of Michigan said in a recent after dinner speech in Detroit: "In one respect at least I am unique. I am probably the only Michiganander in politics who has absolutely no right to the title of lumber king."

"Uncle Sam" Gibbons, who is now on the retired list, carried mail in Kentucky for 61 years and never lost a sack. He lives at Hodgenville, three miles from Lincoln's birthplace. He insists that but for the railroad he would still be in the service.

Lord Howard de Walden, who became an earl on May 6, is one of the wealthiest of all the English barons. He owns about one-half of the late Duke of Portland's vast estate, the present Duke of Portland owning the other half. Between them they own Ayrshire land worth from $250,000 to $300,000 a year.

It is related in London that an inquisitive ecclesiastic asked Mr. Morgan bluntly how much he had paid for Gainsborough's "Duchess of Devonshire" and the head of the so-called American "steel octopus" wriggled as he replied: "Nobody will ever know. If the truth came out, I might be considered a candidate for a lunatic asylum."

Hubbard B. McDonald, the journal clerk of the United States senate, is credited with being the ablest parliamentarian connected with that body. He is the third of his family to hold the place, his father and grandfather having preceded him. His business is to sit close to the presiding officer and keep him from falling into parliamentary pitfalls. He reports that of all the vice presidents he has coached in his 25 years' experience Mr. Roosevelt is much the hardest to keep in line.

THE ROYAL BOX.

It is a saying of Queen Sophia of Sweden that "the world's history is made in the nursery."

The only votes King Edward has ever cast in the house of lords have been in favor of legalizing marriage with a deceased wife's sister.

The German Crown Prince Frederick William, who recently matriculated at Bonn university, has developed a decided taste for music and is to study the art seriously.

The Kaiser is stated to have just put the finishing touches to a treatise on the capture of the Taku forts by the powers. He is also credited with having compiled studies in various periods of the history of Germany, Austria and France.

The sultan of Turkey is one of the most enthusiastic chess players in Europe. He will play the game for hours without intermission and will not allow any matter of state to interfere with the problem in which at the time he is engaged.

PERT PERSONALS.

Count Esterhazy continues to issue confessions. The count is determined to retain his position as a news item.—Baltimore American.

Dyerport Morgan is having an easy thing now, but just wait until he tries to get a pinch on something that Hetty Green owns.—San Francisco Bulletin.

A great many Englishmen think that Edward VII ought to have more money. But there is no danger that he will throw up his position because of the meagerness of the salary.—Washington Star.

King Edward has neglected to signalize his accession to the throne by restoring William Waldorf Astor, late of New York and London, to the royal favor. Astor is literally "a man without a country," and he has only himself to thank for it.—Los Angeles Herald.

Morgan After More Ships.

London, May 28.—The latest gossip concerning Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan is dated Copenhagen, where it is believed he is considering the acquisition of the United Steamship company's 100 vessels.

R1 SECRET.

Miss Jones—How does Mr. Kammerer get such splendid expressions in his photographs?
Mr. Brown—Very simple. He invites his sister to take a drink just before he touches the button.

Australian Kickmash.

The inhabitants of New South Wales have long been known as "cornstalks," an allusion to the length and alimness of the average young New South Wales native. Victorians are known as "gun suckers," with reference to the gun that is found on many native trees, some of which is relished by juveniles. "Crow eaters," as applied to the South Australians, owes its origin to a statement that in times of drought the wheat farmers of South Australia are driven to the source suggested for food. "Wheatfielders" is a more euphonious name sometimes used for the same province.

The Queenslanders are known as "banana landers," that tropical fruit growing there abundantly. Western Australians—or, as they are now generally called, Westralians—are known in the east as "sand groppers" or "groppers." The Westralians themselves group all the other states into "rotter side" and call the residents "rotter sliders." Tasmania, the green little isle that is much like England in climate and other characteristics, is generally regarded as very quiet and rather behind the times and is referred to as "the land of lots of time," "the land of sleep a lot," and so on, while the inhabitants are called "Tassies," and "jam eaters," the latter being an allusion to the great fruit production of the "right little island."—Leisure Hour.

Baring Her Heart.

"Darling," she wrote, "my own darling, I love you, love you, love you! I repeat the words a thousand times a day. Am I forward and unmaidenly, my own beloved, in thus revealing my heart to you? Ah, no! Have you not told me, my precious one, that I am constantly in your thoughts, waking or dreaming? Have you not assured me of your deathless devotion in burning words that thrill me when I think of them, as I do every moment of my life? What are you doing now, darling? Are you conning the leaden hours as they drag themselves along toward the day when we shall be with each other once more? How is it possible, sweet, that you can love me with a millioth part of the fondness I feel for you? Oh, I am yours utterly, utterly! Had I the eloquence of an archangel and all the years of eternity, my own Archibald, I could never express the love that fills my whole being," etc.

Do you think she really was writing to her Archibald?
Not at all, my dear children. She was laying bare her heart's rich treasures for publication in a magazine under the title "Love Letters of a Type-writer Girl."—Chicago Tribune.

Verbs From Proper Names.

To Jerry build—To build in an inefficient, careless or hasty manner. Jerry Bros., contractors and builders, were a Liverpool firm in the early part of last century who used to put up rapidly built, showy, but ill constructed houses, so that they gave their name to such work, first in Liverpool, then throughout England.

To levant—To run away, as it were, to the Levant, the eastern portion of the Mediterranean sea, to escape one's creditors. "Never mind that, man (having no money to stake), run a levant, * * * be circumspect about the man."—Fielding, "Tom Jones."

To lush—The slang word "lush," meaning beer or other intoxicating liquor, is an abbreviation of Lushington, the name of a London brewer. Its adoption in this sense was perhaps facilitated by the fact of Shakespeare having used the old adjective "lush," meaning succulent, rich, luxuriant: "How lush and lusty the grass looks! How green!"—"The Tempest," II, 1.

"They didn't look like regular Lushingtons at all."—Mayhew, "London Labor and London Poor."—Notes and Queries.

He Had Paid For It.

An American had quite an amusing experience recently while on a trip through Switzerland. While standing up in a moving train his foot slipped, and he fell against the window, which caused it to break, without the pieces falling out. The conductor immediately went to him and demanded the usual fine of 3½ francs (70 cents), which was paid, a receipt being given.

A few stations beyond where the accident occurred the crew was changed, but the American went on as far as Basle. When he arrived at this terminus, he waited until most of the people had left the car and then he threw his dress suit case with all his force through the broken window. He was at once surrounded by the station master, his assistants and everybody of authority within the station, but as he claimed not to understand them there was much gesticulation and talk until, just as the American was about to be arrested, an interpreter was found, to whom he showed his receipt, to the astonishment of the authorities and the amusement of the bystanders.

The First British Census.

It is significant of the favorable opposition offered to any innovation in England that when the first proposal for a census was made in parliament it met with bitter hostility. It was on March 30, 1753, that Mr. Potter, M. P., asked leave to bring in a bill "for the taking and registering an annual account of the total number of people and of the total number of births, deaths and marriages." The ex-borne secretary's grandfather, Mr. Matthew Ridley, said that the people of New-castle regarded the measure as ominous and feared—having regard, perhaps, to the punishment awarded to King David—lest some public misfortune or an epidemic distemper should follow the numbering. However, the bill passed the commons and received the support of the government, but was thrown out by the lords.—London Chronicle.

SUGAR WATER.

The Beautiful Indian Legend of the Maple Tree.

Meek-see, the squirrel red,
When the winter frost had fled,
Sporting in the leafless trees,
Glad of softer sun and breeze,
Gave beneath him, creeping slow,
Wang he sh, with beaded brow,
Sitting upright on the limb,
Meek-see accented him:

"Shoot not, Wang-he-sh, I pray, Till you hear what I would say."
Then the Indian lad obeyed,
Dropped his arrow's point and said,
"Speak out quickly, Meek-see;
Then your quest I will free."
"Nay," the squirrel cried; "not so!
Pluck your arrow from the bow.
Promise safety unto me
And to all my family;
Then a secret I will tell
That will serve you long and well.
Every spring shall you rejoice
When you hear the squirrel's voice.
For such wealth as you shall find,
Spare, then, all the squirrel kind."

Long the Indian boy stood still,
Fingering his arrow quill;
Then he said, "So let it be,
Wizard squirrel! I agree."
Then spake Meek-see and told
Of the sweets the maples hold:
How the sap, when frosts depart,
Pulses from the maple's heart,
Climbs to every twig and bud
In a sweet and costly food.
Then he told the lad beneath
How to pierce the maple's sheath,
How to shape the alder spill,
How to shape the alder spill,
How to catch the dropping juice,
Boil and stir till fit for use.

Wang he sh, all eager, went
To his whittled maple tent,
Took a kettle and with haste
Neath a lily maple placed.
Then he pierced the tree's gray skin,
Drove his slender spit in
And set watching as the tide
Tinkled on the vessel's side.
Next he took his linden spoon,
Set it o'er the coals to boil;
But, in doubt, so much its look
Like the water of the brook,
Added meat, with shrewd desire
Not to waste the mess entire,
Left it summing'er o'er the flame
While he sought for other game.

When the Indian lad returned,
Lo, within his kettle burned,
Golden food and thick and sweet,
Snup it for gods to eat!

Ever after that, "his said,
Said was every squirrel's head,
Not an Indian raised his whist
When the furry people laughed.

Not Afraid to Soil His Clothes.

A young man who is now well up the list of high salaried officers of a big manufacturing company said several days ago that he owed his first opportunity to show his ability to the fact that he was not afraid to soil his clothes. He was one of half a dozen young men just graduated from scientific schools who entered the shops of this company as students.

They were expected to show that they were practical workmen, but most of them preferred theory to practice. The manager of the company was a self taught man, and he didn't take much stock in scientific schools.

The young man who has succeeded took his measure accurately and, putting on old clothes, went to work in the shops. Whether by accident or design, he was noticed by the manager one day stretched out on his back under a heavy casting with a hammer and cold chisel in his hands working away as if he had no higher ambition. A week later the manager summoned him to the office.

"Didn't I see you under the casting several days ago?" he asked.

"Yes."
"Well, I find that we have a vacancy on our staff now, and you may fill it if you choose."

The young man did choose, and his progress has been rapid. He does not have to soil his clothes now to prove his ability.—American Boy.

Game of Gathering Sticks.

The ground is divided into two equal parts, with a small goal marked off at the rear of each part, in which six sticks are placed. Each player who reaches the enemy's goal safely may carry one stick back to his own goal and may not be caught while carrying it back. If caught before reaching the opposing goal, he must remain a prisoner in the goal until touched by one of his own side. Neither may be caught while returning. No stick may be taken by a side while any of its men are prisoners. The game is won by the side gaining all of the sticks.

The Boers' Youngest Prisoner.

The manly little fellow whose portrait appears in the accompanying illustration is said to be the youngest British prisoner taken by the Boers. He was captured, together with his father, mother and two sisters, in a raid on his home, Dreifontein farm. His father, being sick with fever, was placed in a cart, but his mother, his sisters and himself were compelled to walk a distance of 12 miles between 4 in the afternoon and dusk, which was a pretty hard task for a boy of only 7.

The Boys Who Went to The Rabbit Dance.

The moon shone on the open fields until they looked as white as snow, and the wind blew as it blows only on a March night.

It blew a long, ragged branch of the old elm against the window of a small up stairs chamber. Scratch went the branch, like the sound of claws, and Richard sat up in bed wide awake and listened, and as he listened he began to feel a tingling desire to go out into the night world and see what was afoot.

A soft tread sounded all at once on the stair, as if bare feet were coming. The door opened, and Jim looked in, grinning.

"Mars Richard," he whispered, "I gwine see de rabbits dance, jes' like granny toll. Is you gwine too?"

Was he going? Richard was out of bed instantly and had scrambled into his clothes in a few moments. They crept softly out of the house, across the lawn and on through the long glen with its beeches and climbed the wooded hill slope.

"Is you scared?" whispered Jim as they passed the graveyard.

"No," answered Richard; "not a bit. But listen! What's that?"

A curious whistling noise was distinctly heard. It was like the sound of a distant locomotive blowing off steam.

In a minute Richard laughed softly and pointed to a spot between two trees. There was a large, reddish gray rabbit, his head up in air, sniffing with twitching nostrils and now and then making the sound that they had heard.

It was challenging some rival at a distance, for presently they heard an answer, and, after raising its ears, listening and scratching or drumming on the earth with its hind feet, it bounded away in the direction of the other whistler. The next sound came from the old garden where they expected to see the rabbits dance, and they crept on in silence.

When they arrived at the edge of the open space and had hidden themselves among the shadows of the encircling trees, they did not have long to wait. First there came a soft pat, pat, patting of furry feet, and three or four young rabbits began frisking and leaping in the moonshine like kittens at play. Occasionally a big one would stop, sniff the air and whistle to another rabbit in the distance.

But the dance did not last long. A stealthy movement caused Richard to turn his head. Before he could cry out a gliding figure with horns and claws and cruel, greedy eyes, lit by yellow phosphorescent flame, darted into the midst of the heedless rabbits.

Two sounds mixed together, a shrill, blood curdling scream of triumph, and a piteous squeal, as from a young cat. Both boys fled, and the rabbits vanished as if by magic.

The woods, however, in front of the boys had awakened into strange life. From the hollows came, as if in call and answer, a curious guttural whoo-hoo-hoo! and whaa-haa-haa! long drawn out. Sometimes the notes resembled an eerie and sinister laughter.

The boys dared not stop or look behind them, but heard a flutter of wings as they ran, Jim to his granny's cabin and Richard to the "big house."

As he gained the porch a window opened, and he heard his father's voice. "Give me the rifle. There is the horned owl again after your chickens. Hear him, like a dog barking!"

Whoo-hoo-hoo!

A shadowy thing flitted across the moonlight, and a report rang out. His father hastened to the spot and lifted the bird from the ground.

"Fifteen inches across his wings and 22 inches long. He is a big bird. They say he catches rabbits—a tiger among birds some one has called him—and he does not know how to build a nest, but takes possession of any old crow's, hawk's or squirrel's home that happens to be handy."

The next day Richard showed Jim the great owl, which his father was preparing to stuff.

Jim looked at it critically and shook his head.

"That's what we heard last night," said Richard.

"No, suh. Dis is sho' de pearance he wo', but 'tain't he! Sereeches an howls does ter hide hisself in; dat's all."

Nor could Jim ever be persuaded that he and Richard had not narrowly escaped from the evil one that night.—Ellis F. Mosby in Philadelphia Times.

STOPPED THE TRAIN.
AN INCIDENT OF TRAVEL ON A CA-NADIAN RAILWAY.
The Engineer Jammed on the Brakes
When He Saw a Big Salmon Hooked,
and the Passengers All Piled
Out to See the Fish Land.

The train was whirling along at a good rate for a Canadian train. It was the Quebec express from St. John and Halifax, and the passengers were idly gazing at the beautiful scenery in anticipation of the breakfast that was awaiting them at the next stopping place.
For miles here the track of the Intercolonial railway runs parallel with the Matapedia river, one of the best salmon-on fishing streams in the Dominion and the one from whose icy waters the Princess Louise brought to gaff what is said to be the largest salmon ever killed by a woman.
The country is of a kind to stir the soul of the sportsman and make his breath come short and quick at the thought of trying his luck amid such glorious surroundings. At times the railroad runs for half a mile or so on the very brink of the rapid little river,
the embankment being walled with stone to prevent its sliding into the water. Then as the river takes a turn it is lost sight of, and the train plunges into the deep forest, through which the sparkling waters are soon seen again.
The next moment you are plunging along with the Matapedia under your feet.

This morning as the Quebec express burst upon a long stretch of river one of the passengers whose eyes were engaged directed along it saw an eighth of a mile ahead the silver glitter of a splendid salmon leaping high out of water. The next moment he heard the whistle of the steam brakes jammed on hard, and the train was brought to a sudden stop.
Alarmed at first, he sat waiting for the crash of a collision. But he saw nothing in the faces of the excited passengers to confirm his fears. Every one was standing up and peering from the car windows, yet the anxiety was only that shown by people who are waiting to see a horse race or a baseball game. Catching the attention of one excited man just as the cars were coming to a standstill, the mystified
passenger asked him what was up.
"He's struck a fish," the man shouted back as he piled out with the others,
leaving the mystified one to follow along about as much in the dark as before.

Once outside, the cause of the commotion was quickly made plain. Every man, woman and child in the five cars of the express train and the train hands as well had hustled out and taken up places on the brink of the Matapedia.
On the other side of the stream
stood a tall, dignified man in tweeds.
In his hands was a fishing rod bowed almost double by the strength of the big salmon that had taken the sportsman's lure. At his side stood an Indian, gaff in hand and closely watching every movement of the hooked fish.

The silver flash that had caught the eye of the passenger a moment before had not escaped the notice of the watchful engineer away on ahead in his cab. He saw that the salmon had taken the fly, and his sporting blood was aroused. His one thought then was to see the end of the magnificent struggle he knew was to follow. So he slammed the throttle shut and clapped
on the power brakes.
Most of the people in the train were Canadians, and they suspected what was to do. A glance from the window confirmed their impression, and in a few moments more the whole trainful
were out by the river's side watching a thrilling battle.

It was certainly an unusual spectacle
to behold a hundred or more persons standing there amid the wild scenery, silent and following breathlessly every turn of the life fight that game fish
was making, seemingly for their express enjoyment. The man in the tweeds paid not the slightest apparent
attention to the crowd across the river,
which at this point was about 150 yards wide. He just attended to business, and he had his hands full.

The bringing to gaff of a hard fighting salmon has often been described,
so it is not necessary to tell of the valiant struggles this Matapedia fish made to break the silken line or tear the feathered hook from his flesh. He worked as hard for his life as ever fish did, but steadily the skillful person in tweeds reeled him in. Inch by inch at first and then foot by foot he was brought nearer to the deadly steel in the hands of the Indian.

At last the Indian fell to his knees,
and, reaching out the gaff as the angler brought the fish carefully within reach, there was a flash of gleaming scales, and the guide jumped to his feet, holding high a 40 pounder for the inspection of the spellbound knot of travelers across the river. They looked at it for a moment, and then there went up a spontaneous, ringing cheer, whereat Mr. Dignity in the tweeds un-bent and, taking off his cap, bowed low in graceful recognition of the tribute to his skill as a taker of salmon.

Then the locomotive screeched "Toot, toot!" the conductor shouted "All aboard!" and the sporting trainful were soon being hurried along toward the almost forgotten breakfast.—New York Sun.

JOLLY JOBBERNOWLS RIDE THE
MERRY GO ROUND
Copyright, 1899, by Caroline Wetherell.

Because they'd worked for her so well, kind Mother Goose agreed
That of a merry holiday the Jobbernows had need.
She baked her very nicest cakes, she made some luscious pies,
And these and more she packed within a box of ample size.
They started for a nearby beach, all sober, staid and neat,
All packed within a funny cart drawn by a donkey fleet.
Because he pleaded so to drive, Pat held the reins awhile,
But naughty Neddy would not budge, which made the people smile.

With Mother Goose in charge of Ned, he briskly bobbed along,
And as they rode the party sang a jerky little song.
When they had come to Seashell beach, the wildest fun began.
They dug the sand and gayly bathed, nor cared how they might tan.
A hermit crab whom they annoyed caught Ole by the toe
And clung to it in spite of shakes and Ole's shrieks of woe.
The pig of clams had quite a feast. Said Hans, "A clambake's rare!"
And so upon a fire they built they baked some clams with care.

Carousel riding was the treat reserved until the last,
And Mother Goose with pride surveyed their figures rolling past.
For rings they all kept reaching out (a white ring meant a ride),
And so, of course, the prize to win each jolly rider tried.
It happened the carousel man was short of cash that day,
And so to make them pay again he hid the ring away.
The pig in rooting round the sand upon the white ring came,
Which won for it the promised ride and caused that man much shame.

A ROOSTER THAT CACKLED.
How Mr. Red Top Caused Mrs. Speckle to Faint Entirely Away.
"Cut-cut-cut-cudawent!" cried Mrs.
Speckle. "Come, everybody, and see my new egg."
Mr. Red Top and the rest of his wives came hurrying up. The hens crowded about, eager to look, but Red Top turned away disgusted when he saw the egg. "What a lot of noise you hens make over nothing!" said he.
"Noise, is it?" said Mrs. Speckle.
"It's you who are jealous because you can't cackle like us. You can only flap your wings and crow, and it sounds as if you had a bad cold."
The rooster shook with anger and struck at her with his beak, but she was half way across the yard by that time. So he flew up on the fence and relieved his feelings with a loud crow, while Mrs. Speckle cackled mockingly.
But Speckle was right. Red Top was jealous of her beautiful voice—frightfully jealous. The other hens tried in vain to cheer him up.
"How concealed she must be!" said Mrs. Plymouth Rock. "And such an ordinary hen too!"
"The idea of you being jealous of her!" said Mrs. Brownie. "Poor creature, I suppose she doesn't know any better!"
A Young Financier.

me 25 cents?"—Time.

THE LAND OF
TWELVE
When you are only a little chap of 5, you go to kindergarten. That's nothing but fun. All you do is play ring games and make things of colored paper. But when you get to be a big fellow of 9 you get into the third grade. Then you meet the times table.
The idea of calling a thing a table
when it hasn't a leg to stand on and is just a lot of old figures! And what's the use of learning to say them? No use at all! It just keeps you from having fun outdoors and makes your head ache. Ifang the times table!
Not being able to do just this, Bobbie did the next best thing. He threw the book at Duke. Duke must have been on the watch for some such move as this, for he dodged. When Bobbie

"Two times six are twelve,"
was at school, Duke would curl up on the rug and shut both eyes. But when Bobbie was at home Duke lay with his nose on his paws and one eye open.
Isn't it queer how suspicious a dog
can be?
Bobbie was thinking of these things
when Uncle Tom came in. Uncle Tom always sees so much more than other folks. He saw the book lying face up and spread out in one corner. Then he looked at Bobbie, who had thrown one leg over the arm of the chair and was very much at his ease.
"What is it?" asked Uncle Tom, picking up the book.
"Times table," answered Bobbie.
"What part?"
"The seven times."
"The very hardest," said Uncle Tom gravely, though his eyes twinkled. "It was weeks and weeks before I could remember that 7 times 8 are 53."
"I've got that," said Bobbie confidently. "It's 7 times 6 that I can't remember."
Then Bobbie told Uncle Tom, who is one of those men who always understand a fellow, what he thought of the times table and of the people who got it up. He wanted to know how it would help him when he had become a daring rover of the seas to know what 7 times 6 was anyway.
"Not the least use in the world," said Uncle Tom—"that is, unless you happen to run into Port Multiplication, which you might do, and a fine city it is to see."

"Port Multiplication?" echoed Bobbie.
"Yes," said Uncle Tom. "It's the capital city of the Land of Twelve Times Twelve."
"Why, I never heard of it!" said Bob-
bie.
"Haven't got far in geography, have you?"
"No; I've just begun."
"Ah, I thought so," said Uncle Tom quietly.
Now, Uncle Tom has traveled in many parts of the world and has seen
so many things that he could fill books
in telling about them if he wanted to do so. Bobbie demanded to be told all about the Land of Twelve Times
Twelve.

"I never knew how useful the times
table really was," went on Uncle Tom,
"until I put into Port Multiplication. I asked a native where there was a good hotel. Now, what do you think he said?"
"What?" asked Bobbie.
"Nothing at all," replied Uncle Tom,
"but 5 times 7 are 35 and 2 times 6 are 12."

"But what did he mean?"
"Well, I didn't know just then. I thought he was crazy, but after I had asked two other natives the question I began to think it was I who was crazy. They all said the same thing.
Then I noticed that the signs on the buildings were all in figures; so were the names of the streets. I saw a policeman and asked him about the hotel. 'Five times 7 are 35 and 2 times 6 are 12,' said he. Then it occurred to me to try some multiplication on him."
"What did you say?"
"I said, 'Three times 4 are 12 and 2
times 3 are six.' He answered by saying, 'Four times 6 are 24.' Then I made my mistake. Said I, shaking my fist at nothing in particular and trying to appear very bold, 'Nine times 8 are 76.' I thought I would show him
I knew about the last part of the times
table. But I was wrong. Nine times 8 are not 76. He arrested me on the spot."

"Arrested you?"
"Yes," said Uncle Tom; "took me right off to court. My, but you should have heard that judge talk! Didn't he know a lot, though! He began with the little figures like 6 times 7, but he kept going higher and higher until once he got up as far as 113
times 120, and after he was once started he didn't drop lower than the 11 times even for a second."

"But didn't he say anything except figures?" asked Bobbie.
"Not a word. It seems that in the Land of Twelve Times Twelve the times table is the only language they speak. When I found that out, you may be sure I didn't try to fool him with my multiplication. I just talked English. So they sent out for an interpreter—a man who knows how to talk in all kinds of ways, you know—
and he told me I had been arrested for treason, which is a very serious offense
in any country."
"I know," said Bobbie. "That's what Benedict Andre did. He tried to sell the Hudson river to George Washington, but the British caught him. That was our history lesson one day last month."
"You have a fine memory, Bobbie.
Let's see—they shot him first and then put him in prison for life, didn't they?"
"No; they hanged him from Bunker Hill monument. But what did the times table folks do to you, Uncle Tom?"
"Well, when they found out I was a foreigner who only knew the times table up to 12 times 12, and that not very well, they let me off with banishment—
that is, they said I must go away and never come back until I could say the times table up to 99 times 99."

"And can you, Uncle Tom?" asked Bobbie in awe.
"No, indeed; but the first thing I did after I got away was to learn it up to 12 times 12, for if there had been no interpreter handy when I made that mistake I might be to this day a slave soldier in the Multiplication army."

"Did those people have an army, Uncle Tom?"
"Of course. They were at war with the state of Division, so I was told. It was a fierce war. One side was being helped by a tribe of savages they called the Vulgar Fractions, while another lot of barbarians known as Decimals were fighting on the other side. Ever hear of them, Bobbie?"
"Nope."

"Well, I don't know much about them, either. But I tell you I was mighty glad to get out of such a country. Since my experiences in Port Multiplication I've never traveled in that part of the world without a ready reckoner in my pocket."
When he was alone again, Bobbie thought it all over. Of course Uncle Tom sometimes told him "made up"
stories, but often they were just as he had said. There was the yarn about the country where green parrots and real monkeys lived in the trees, and you could see elephants, just like those in the circus, running about in the woods. Bobbie did not believe a word of all this until his teacher had said it was true.
And perhaps there may be a place
where folks talk nothing but the times
table," said Bobbie. "If there is, I might get there some day by mistake,
and I might get caught just as Uncle Tom was."

So Bobbie put the book away carefully and said to himself, "Some day,
when I feel more like doing it, I will just learn the whole of that old table."

A Loyal Boy Patriot.
A Confederate soldier in the civil war saw a boy, wearing the uniform of the Union army, lying wounded in the hot sun. As the man looked pityingly at the boy the little fellow gained courage to make a request.
"Neighbor, won't you get me a drink
of water? I'm very thirsty."
"Of course I will," said the man, and he brought the water.
Encouraged by this, the boy asked again: "Won't you get me taken to the hospital? I'm badly wounded."
The man said: "Well, now, my boy,
if I get you taken care of and you get well, so that you can go home again,
will you come down here and fight me and my folks once more? How about that?"

It was a hard test for a wounded prisoner boy, but that boy stood the test. Looking his captor in the eye, he said firmly, "That I would, my friend."

"I tell you," said the man, "I liked that pluck. I had that boy taken to the hospital and good care taken of him."

WEDNESDAY, MAY 29, 1901.

Lawson is a good old sport.
Storti's life continues to come in instalments.

The man who is said to have predicted continuous fair weather for this month is now denying, in the most emphatic terms, that he said so.

Seventy-five thousand tons of ice was saved from eleven icehouses burned in Lowell on Sunday. It is hardly necessary just now to melt ice for the water there is in it.

Mary Ellen Lease is bankrupt, has been divorced by her husband and her political pipe has nothing but ashes in the bowl. Mary still has her voice and if there is further trouble ahead, her speech will scare it up.

If all the motormen who persist in running their cars at the rate of forty miles an hour are killed when there is a smashup as a result of their reckless speed, there will be nothing to regret, as far as that particular part of the accident is concerned.

The president's return journey to Washington is in marked contrast to the outward trip four weeks ago. Quite wanting in popular eclat now, the reasons which have deprived it of the element of applause have only served to endear the president still more closely to the people. The train which bears the president's party returns slowly, the journey being made in such a way as to meet the conditions most needed for an invalid's comfort; and it is a matter of universal satisfaction that thus far Mrs. McKinley has improved on the way, instead of merely holding her own, as, perhaps, might have been expected. The whole episode of the interrupted tour, the illness of the president's wife, and the deliberate and solicitous return journey has been a touching one, in which the people take a marked and peculiar interest.

PICKUPS AT RANDOM.

How can the birds sing, with wet feet and wet feathers? They do it, and it's not a mournful tune, either; but rather a sprightly melody like those in Robin Hood and The Sirenade. While men and women usually cheerful are converted into grumblers by this nasty weather, these robins, blackbirds and bobolinks keep right on flooding the air with song, just as if raindrops as big as beans weren't dropping on their backs.

A dog fancier tells me that albinative black-and-taus are now regarded as the handsomest pets and are in great demand by all who like to follow the edicts of fashion. This ought to suit Dog Officer Hodgkins finely; these little four-legged snappers present the advantage of being much easier for the master of the city pound to handle, than angry mastiffs or Newfoundlanders.

Officer Hodgkins told me, on Tuesday evening, that he had shot eighteen unlicensed canines thus far this spring. More than four hundred licenses have been paid and about sixty remain to be rounded up, which he considers pretty good work for the time that he has put into it.

I found a little fault, on Tuesday morning, with the conditions at Goodwin park, and now I'm going to kick some more. Where are those sections that belong there? Is Haven park to get all the good things this year, while our West and park goes neglected? This is not right. Somebody, I believe, was ordered by the city government to place sections in Goodwin park, some time ago. It has not been done. I'd like to know just who is to blame, so I can aim a protest squarely at the target.

These have been rather sorrowful days at the Portsmouth Yacht club. The members have about given up hope of good sailing weather, it has been so long delayed. Many of the club craft have been in trim for a run for some time, only awaiting a favoring breeze, a kind sea and smiling skies. These conditions have not arrived, and all the yachtsmen have been able to do is to sit around in the club house and curse the monotonous patter of the rain and the never-lifting tone of gray that has invested all the harbor.

There's a professor named Starr—Freddie Starr, I believe—on the instruction staff of some Chicago institute of learning, who has laid aside Greek and trigonometry and taken up the study of hair and how it should be combed. He tells the country that parting the hair in the middle is a sign of degeneracy. In saying this, the professor is guilty of sacrilege, although he may not know it. In all the pictures of Jesus that I have ever seen, or of the apostles, the hair is always parted in the middle. Thus Professor Starr treads on sacred ground. It is time for him to do what the prairie dog does when scared. By the way, I wonder if this hair student of Chicago ever runs a comb through his thatch, at all?

It is too bad that Portsmouth cannot be represented this season by a baseball team composed of the really first class players to be found in town, such as Newick, Wilbur, Smith, Powers, Will Woods, Polhemus and three or four others who might be named. There is plenty of local enthusiasm in the game at present, only wanting a strong and representative team to raise it to fever heat. Anybody who tries now to put the game on a good basis here, though, is hampered badly at the start by the lack of a decent baseball plot.

I concur in the opinion that the cutting down of the woodbine on the northwest corner of the Unitarian church was sensible. It was fast crowding off the ivy which has spread its rich, green leaves over the gray stones of the edifice so long. That ivy is too beautiful to be lost.

Buff—"I wonder who started this agitation about letter carriers wearing shirt waists?"

Buff—"Guess it was the war department."

Buff—"War department! What has that to do with letter carriers?"

Buff—"Why, aren't shirt waists coats of mail?"

An inventive genius who pays taxes down in New Jersey has perfected and patented a device whereby a hat can be made to fit any head from the size of a five-cent coconut up to a thinking dome of Websterian proportions. His is a public benefactor. His name ought to be placed high up on the walls of fame, alongside Marconi and Edison, and in years to come go thundering down to posterity like a canine with an empty tomato can tied to his wagger. "What a boon this device will be," remarks Jorkins, "to the oldtimer who comes sailing home in the morning about three minutes ahead of the milkman, and wants the hired girl to throw out a couple dozen of keyholes of assorted sizes, so he can let himself in with his night key. When he gets up about noon, he needs just such an adjustable hat; for he finds his head so big that he can hardly get through the door with it."

BOARD HAS RETURNED.

$150,000 To Be Expended for a Torpedo Station, Most Likely at This Port.
The naval torpedo board, which has made a tour of inspection at this station as to the advantages of locating a torpedo station here, has returned to Boston, but an inspection of the yard there is not necessary, as that place will not be considered. The torpedo station to be located along this coast is to be installed at a cost of $150,000.

It is said that the board will recommend that the station be located here. While here the board examined the sites suggested by the naval officials at this yard, and will present all the facts they secured to Washington.

The examination of the basin between Clark's island and Seavey's island occupied some time, as well as the other sites that have been mentioned.

The board is composed of Capt. G. A. Converse, U. S. N., Naval Constructor; D. W. Taylor, Lieut. Lloyd Ohandler, U. S. N., Chief Engineer; L. H. Perry, U. S. N., Civil Engineer; Rossseau, U. S. N. Plans of the sites visited by the board were furnished by Civil Engineer Gregory.

POLICE COURT.

Three Junk Dealers Given Suspended Sentences on Agreeing to Get Licenses

There were three more junk dealers before the police court this forenoon, when S. Peter Emery, Esq., was the presiding justice. The men who were arraigned were William T. Lucas, John W. Green and James F. Slaughter, who were charged with conducting their business without the necessary license. They pleaded guilty.

A fine of $5 and costs were imposed in each case, the same being suspended on the agreement of the respondents to procure a license from the city clerk at once.

ARRESTED IN NEWBURYPORT.

William Nichols and Howard Wright, two boys who have homes in this city, ran away on Tuesday afternoon and were arrested in Newburyport. Officer McCaffery went to Newburyport this forenoon, secured the young fellows and restored them to their folks.

UNDER THE CAR WHEELS.

There James Hammond Met Horrible Death.

Was Conductor Of A Work Train On The Eastern Division.

Fell Between Two Cars, At State Line, And Was Cut All Up.

James H. Hammond, conductor of a work train which has been employed in roadbed construction at State Line, on the Eastern division of the Boston and Maine railroad, met his death in a horrible manner about six o'clock on Tuesday evening. He slipped and fell between two cars of his train and was instantly killed, being ground into pieces under the wheels. A leg and an arm were severed and his body was terribly mutilated.

"Jimmi" Hammond, as his intimates called him, was well known on this section of the road and had many warm friends among the Boston and Maine employees in this city. He was generally liked by all who became acquainted with him, and when the news of his death under such shocking circumstances circulated through the railroad yard here, on Tuesday night, it caused profound sorrow.

Mr. Hammond was about thirty-two years of age and unmarried. He belonged in Salem, Mass. His mother died not very long ago.

TO VISIT HERE.

Chief Constructor Bowles to Come Here on June 6, for an Inspection of the Yard.

Chief Constructor Francis T. Bowles, U. S. N., accompanied by Mrs. Bowles, will visit this city on June 6, and will visit the navy yard and be the guests of Naval Constructor and Mrs. John G. Tawessey.

After visiting the yard, and on the return to this city, they will register at the Rockingham and pass the night there. The visit will afford the chief constructor an opportunity to inspect the work at the yard. It will be his first visit to our naval station.

In the evening, at the Rockingham, Constructor Bowles will be given a reception by several prominent citizens of the city.

OBITUARY.

Annie M. Davis.

The death of Miss Annie M. Davis, a well known and respected young lady of Kittery Point, occurred on Monday night, after a long sickness from consumption. Her death took place at the home of the folks who have cared for her since the death of her parents. Her age was twenty-six years, eleven months and twenty-five days. The funeral was held at the Free Baptist church in Kittery Point at two o'clock this afternoon, the pastor, the Rev. Victor Morse being assisted in the service by the Rev. Clifford M. Anderson, a former pastor of the church. Interment was in the Free Baptist cemetery. Mr. Oliver W. Ham of this city was the funeral director.

PERSONALS.

Mrs. A. F. Howard is the guest of friends in Williamstown, Conn.

Mrs. Lance, wife of Dr. A. J. Lance and Mrs. John W. Parsons are passing six weeks in Vermont.

Mrs. Charles E. Almy of Highland street and son Dean are passing the month in Amherst, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Carll of Westbrook, Me., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Howard Anderson, Wibur street.

Mrs. James Fullerton Shaw of Brook line, Mass., is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Fisher Eldredge, Merriam street.

Miss Mary Foster, Richards avenue, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Winchester in San Francisco, has returned home.

Mr. Bailey, private secretary to Hon. O. A. Sulloway, is in town on business and is the guest of Capt. and Mrs. F. E. H. Marden.

Ex-County Solicitor Louis G. Hoyt has just published a thirty-two-page monograph entitled "The Homestead As It Exists in New Hampshire," of which his fellow members of the Rockingham bar speak in the highest terms.

KITTERY.

Mrs. Herman Keller of West Medford, Mass., was a visitor in town on Tuesday.

About twenty-five of the Italians who are living in Love Lane went away yesterday.

There will be a regular meeting of Whipple lodge of Good Templars at Westworth hall this Wednesday evening.

There will be a special communication of Naval lodge, A. F. and A. M., this evening, when the second and third degrees will be worked on two candidates.

A little Davis boy, aged about eight years, who attends the primary school in District No. 9, was taken suddenly ill in school yesterday and is now reported to be very sick with brain fever.

The rains have kept the roads in bad condition and in several places the highways are considerably washed. The commissioners are quick to make repairs, however, and so dangerous places are allowed to exist.

The Carahar Express company of Nahant, Mass., has been organized in Kittery under the Maine laws, the officers being Nahant men who have been engaged in the passenger and express business for years. The new company will conduct a general freight and transportation business between Lynn and Nahant. Capital stock, $40,000.

OBSEQUES.

The funeral of Levi Moulton was held at his home on Woodbury avenue at eleven o'clock this forenoon, the home being well filled with the relatives and friends of the deceased farmer.

The Rev. Mr. Tompkins of the Raymond Christian church conducted the funeral services. The body was sent to Raymond on the noon train, interment to be made in the family lot in that place. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Mr. Oliver W. Ham.

The body of Mrs. Evelyn Grant, who died in this city on Jan. 17, last, was taken to Eliot today for interment in the family lot in Mount Pleasant cemetery, the burial being under the direction of Mr. H. W. Nickerson of this city.

HAVING A RUSH.

The sale inaugurated at the Portsmouth Furniture store by the new proprietors last Tuesday morning proved something more than they expected and it has hardly been possible to obtain admittance to the building, so great is the rush.

CHOIR MUSICAL.

The choir of the Court street church is to give a musicale in the vestry on next Tuesday evening, commencing at a quarter before eight o'clock. Refreshments are to be served, and a very agreeable occasion is confidently anticipated.

The latest baseball proposition is for a state league to be composed of teams in Laconia, Franklin, Somersworth, Rochester, Dover and Portsmouth. If the Concord Street railway extends its tracks to the state fair grounds, Concord might be counted in.—Concord Monitor.

The sixty-fourth annual session of the Rockingham conference of Congregational and Presbyterian churches will begin at Chester, June 4, and continue three days. The conference was organized at Chester in June, 1837, and it met the second time there half a century ago. The principal address of the session will be by the Rev. Dr. W. A. Bartlett of Lowell, Mass.

WAVES OF WATER.

The amount of water flowing out of the Nile is 16 times that of the Thames. The deepest lake in Europe is Constantine, 1,027 feet. It is equal in area to the Isle of Man.

Lake Titicaca, lying in South America between Peru and Bolivia, is the highest large sheet of water in the world. It is 13,000 feet above sea level. The Pacific ocean has a greater volume of water than its stormy sister sea. There are 72,000,000 cubic miles of water in the Atlantic and 141,000,000 in the Pacific.

William C. Whitney of New York has given the sum of $25,000 to the Yale bicentennial fund. It will be available at once.

The one hundredth anniversary of Daniel Webster's graduation from Dartmouth college is to be celebrated in that institution on Sept. 24 and 25 next.

Professor Max Farrand, who has recently resigned from the chair of history of Wesleyan university to accept the professorship of history in Leland Stanford, Jr., university, is now delivering a course of three lectures at the latter institution.

Dr. Richard Douglas has retired from the medical department of Vanderbilt university, in Nashville, because of differences with the faculty over an extension of the facilities of the department. He was a prime mover in establishing the department and during the first three years of its existence was secretary of the faculty.

THE COOKBOOK.

A rich color may often be given to a soup by long boiling instead of employing browned flour or burned sugar.

To ascertain if fish is cooked sufficiently test it with the prongs of a fork. If the fish separates cleanly from the bone, it is cooked and should be taken up at once or it will break and be spoiled.

Baked bananas are wholesome and nutritious. Make a thin sirup of lemon juice and powdered sugar with boiling water. After peeling the bananas lay them in a porcelain lined pan and pour the sirup over them. Then bake about 20 minutes.

A delicious flavor may be given to coffee by rubbing the lump of sugar which sweetens it over orange or lemon rind. People who like the slice of lemon in their tea will appreciate a slice of lime instead, which will give a deliciously piquant flavor.

WALL STREET.

The "wild and woolly west" left considerable of its wool in Wall street. It will fare better if it has also left some of its wildness.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Mr. Keene explains that speculation, being based on knowledge, is not gambling. Then the poker player that uses marked cards is not a gambler, but a speculator. We see.—Chicago Tribune.

Wall street brokers are calling the lambs back, but a daily total of 700,000 shares against more than 3,000,000 two weeks ago tells the story of shaken confidence in the man with the shears.—New York World.

SCORE OF MINERS KILLED

Twenty-one Lose Lives In an Explosion.

NINE OTHERS BADLY BURNED.

Thirty-four Men Were In the Underground Workings When the Gas Was Ignited—Only Four Escape
Without Serious Injury.

Dayton, Tenn., May 28.—At the Richland mine of the Dayton Coal and Iron company, two miles from Dayton, yesterday afternoon a terrific explosion of gas resulted in the death of 21 men,
all white and most of them married and with families. The explosion was caused by what is known among miners as a "blown blast." It is the custom of the miners to place blasts and fire them off at quitting time each afternoon, leaving the coal thus thrown down to be loaded and hauled from the mine the next morning. The Richland mine is destitute of water, and hence
a great volume of fine particles of coal dust, invisible to the naked eye, accumulates at the roof of the mine, forming a highly inflammable gas.
Yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock
a dynamite cartridge was placed in position in one of the rooms for a blast.
The miners had just started for the mouth of the mine. The blast did not explode as intended, but instead a long flame shot out of the blast hole and ignited the accumulation of dust. Instantly a terrific explosion occurred, and a seething mass of flame shot to the mouth of the mine and extended 300 feet into the open air, scorching the leaves from the nearby trees. There were 34 men in the mine at the time.
Four of these escaped with slight injuries. Twenty-one were killed, and nine were terribly burned, most of them fatally.

Alleged Counterfeiters Arrested.

New York, May 28.—Four men who were charged with making and passing counterfeit coins have been arraigned before United States Commissioner Shields by William J. Flynn, agent in charge of the secret service bureau of this city. The prisoners said they were John Speciale and Herbert Hubbard, both of whom lived in lodging houses on the Bowery, and Frank Green and Paul Sanders, who occupied furnished rooms in a house at Bergen street and Third avenue, Brooklyn.
All of the men waived examination except Sanders, who demanded a hearing on the charge, which was set for Wednesday morning next.

Memory Restored by Hypnotism.

Buffalo, May 28.—A remarkable case of loss of memory and restoration by hypnotism has developed here. John J. Kelly of Providence appealed to the police to find out if possible who he was. Dr. Fowler, the police surgeon, after satisfying himself that Kelly was not a fraud, called in three eminent specialists. Kelly was hypnotized.
Under the hypnotic spell he rationally answered all questions put to him.
After being brought to after the experiment Kelly was in a rational condition. He says he has no recollection of anything that has happened since last Friday.

Chosen by Lot to Kill Kaiser.

Rome, May 28.—A newspaper published in Verona reports the attempt of a young blacksmith named Pietrucci
to commit suicide, who has confessed that he belonged to a society of anarchists
and was chosen by lot to kill the emperor of Germany. He preferred suicide to making the attempt. In his confession he also disclosed the names
of certain of his comrades who had
been selected to kill Queen Helena of Italy, President Loubet of France and
the czar of Russia.

Depew Gives Peekskill a Park.

New York, May 28.—President Lane
of Peekskill, N. Y., has received a letter from Senator Chauncey M. Depew offering to donate a park to the village.
Just where the park is to be located is not yet known, but it is thought that it will be cut out of what is known as Depew's woods, which are 50 acres in extent. The senator has asked the privilege of attending a meeting of the trustees to explain fully his intention,
and one will be called at his convenience.

Fourth Class Postmasters.

Washington, May 28.—The following fourth class postmasters have been appointed:

Delaware—Mount Pleasant, J. F. Eliason.
Maine—The Forks, L. S. Young.
New Hampshire—South Stoddard, C.
H. Merritt.
New York—Elmira, Avery Jewett.
Pennsylvania—Nettle Hill, T. R.
Stockdale.

Storli's Execution Postponed.

Washington, May 28.—The United States supreme court has announced that the hearing in the case of Luigi Storli, under sentence of electrocution
in Massachusetts, would be postponed until the 28th day of October next.
This decision will have the effect of prolonging Storli's life until after that date.

Passenger Steamer Sunk.

Burlington, Ia., May 28.—The Diamond Joe packet from Dubuque, south bound, struck a rock 12 miles north of here last evening and sank in five feet of water in half a minute. Fifty passengers were on board, but there were no fatalities.

Chief Hasen Resigns Office.

New York, May 28.—William P. Ha-sen, chief agent of the United States secret service bureau, with headquarters in the postoffice building in this city, has tendered his resignation to take effect June 12 next.

PRESIDENT'S PROGRESS.

The Third Day's Journey Ends In Colorado.

Juliusburg, Colo., May 28.—The presidential train made the third day's run on the homeward journey without incident. The trip across Wyoming was at an average elevation of over 4,000 feet, and at Sherman, just before the train began to descend the eastern slope of the Rocky mountains, the elevation exceeded 7,500 feet. Brief stops were made for water and to change engines at Hawkins, Laramie and Cheyenne, Wyo., and Kimball and Sidney, Neb. The president made no remarks at any of these places, but he appeared on the rear platform and shook hands
with some of those nearest the car.
There were crowds at every station
along the route, and every cattle ranch had its little group of cowboys sitting bolt upright on their horses and watching their sombreros as the train went by.

Mrs. McKinley is standing the trip
very well and seems rejoiced that every hour brings her nearer home. The weather has been exceedingly pleasant,
and that means much for her comfort.
Arrangements for running the president's train from Chicago to Washington have been completed. The train will arrive at the national capital at 7:30 Thursday morning. A slow run will be made from Omaha to Chicago,
timed to have the train arrive there early tomorrow morning instead of late at night.

BAN ON RUSSIAN PAPER.

Suppression of the Novoe Vremya
Causes a Sensation.

St. Petersburg, May 28.—The prohibition of the publication of the Novoe Vremya for a week because of its editorial article on the labor troubles is creating an immense sensation, as indicating extraordinary nervousness on the part of the government.
The Novoe Vremya is second only to the Moscow Vedomosti in conservatism and is usually allowed greater latitude than are the other papers.

The editorial in question is mild as compared with many governmental publications on the labor situation in more quiet times. It merely said the operatives were poorly paid for excessively hard work and were beginning to be influenced by western literature and suggested that the government carry on the work begun for emancipation and enforce social reforms.

Rioting has spread to south Russia
as a result of the production of the anti-Semite play, "The Smugglers." At Kutais thousands of people congregated around the theater and stoned the police. A detachment of Cossacks charged and dispersed the crowd. Thirteen policemen, 15 Cossacks and two officers of Cossacks were severely injured.

Professor Herron Weds Miss Rand.

New York, May 28.—Announcement of the marriage of Professor George D.
Herron and Miss Carrie Rand on Saturday evening in the apartments of
Dr. Charles Brodie Patterson at 53
West Forty-fifth street was made public last evening by Franklin M. Wentworth. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William T. Brown of Rochester. No vows were taken by either party. The announcement was made through the New York City News association.

The Platt Amendment.

Havana, May 28.—By unanimous agreement the Cuban constitutional convention has decided to take final vote on the acceptance of the Platt amendment today. This decision was reached after long arguments against the acceptance of the amendment by Senores Tamayo and Portuondo, who were answered by Senores Sanguliy
and Berrel. The conservatives claim that the Platt amendment will be accepted by the convention by a vote of 17 to 11.

Mrs. Elliott Gets Divorce.

Newport, R. I., May 28.—The petition for divorce of Sallie Hargous Elliott versus Captain Duncan Elliott, late of the Twenty-sixth volunteer regiment, was not contested. Judge Douglass gave Mrs. Elliott a decree for desertion and the custody of the children. The case was heard on depositions. The couple were married here in All Saints' chapel Sept. 15, 1891, and later resided at New York, Westchester, Alken and Newport, three children being born to them.

A Fatal Drop.

Rockland, Me., May 28.—By the breaking of a coal stage at Spruce Head five men fell 25 feet to the deck of the schooner Ned P. Walker. James D. Gaven was killed, Fred Cook and Willis Adams probably fatally hurt
and Willis Bradbury and Orlando Allen very badly hurt. Four of the men were discharging coal from the schooner, and Willis Adams, superintendent, happened on the staging by chance.

Night Watchman Shot by Burglars.

Webster, Mass., May 28.—A daring attempt to blow up the safe in the car barn of the Worcester and Webster Street Railway company took place
here, and Night Watchman Frank Balcom, who interrupted the robbers at their work, was shot and, it is feared, fatally wounded. The safe robbers,
four in number, escaped.

Mrs. Bonine Must Remain In Jail.

Washington, May 28.—Judge Barnard has refused to issue a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Mrs. Bonine, charged with the killing of James Ayres.

Rain Prevents Cop Trial.

Newport, R. I., May 28.—It was expected that the Constitution would go out for a trial sail, but it rained, and the boat remained at her anchorage.

Weather Forecast.

Fair; brisk north to northwest winds.

Unanimous Action of the Presbyterian Assembly.

Philadelphia, May 28.—By a unanimous vote the Presbyterian general assembly yesterday adopted the report of the special committee on the revision of the confession of faith. The debate on this important question had extended into the fourth day, and to Rev. Dr.
James D. Moffatt is due the credit of having brought the commissioners to such a harmonious conclusion. When recommendation B was on Saturday adopted by a comparatively small majority, Dr. Moffatt announced that in view of the divergence of opinion he would on Monday offer an amendment which he hoped would meet with the approval of the entire assembly. When he presented this amendment yesterday, it was instantly accepted by the commissioners, and the adoption of the report as a whole followed with but little delay.

A viva voce vote was taken, and when 640 yeas responded to the question the commissioners arose and sang
"Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow," which was followed by a prayer
of thanksgiving by Moderator Minton.

The momentous question of creed revision having been disposed of, the assembly proceeded to the consideration of unfinished business. The report of the special committee on judicial commissions was first in order and was adopted after a brief discussion. This report recommends the establishment of a permanent judicial committee to which shall be referred all judicial cases which the general assembly does not elect to try before the whole body.
There will be no appeal from the decisions of this committee.

During the afternoon session reports
of various special committees were considered and adopted, among them a supplemental report of the committee on theological seminaries which recommended the consolidation of the Louisville and Danville seminaries.

New York was selected as the meeting place for the next general assembly.

Movements of Naval Vessels.

Washington, May 28.—The tender Accomac has arrived at Key West, the training ships Topeka and Essex at Port Royal and the supply ship Solace
and the gunboat Nashville at Cavite.
The training ship Lancaster has sailed
from Newport News for Gardiners bay. The cruiser Bancroft has been placed out of commission at Boston.
The cruiser Philadelphia has been ordered from Mare Island to Pago Pago, Samoa, with a draft of 75 men for the United States station ship Abarenda.
The Philadelphia will return to the United States when the men have been transferred.

Alleged Anarchist Plots Revealed.

Rome, May 28.—A newspaper published in Verona reports the attempted suicide of a youthful blacksmith named Pietrucci, who has confessed that he belonged to a society of anarchists
and was chosen by lot to kill the emperor of Germany. He preferred suicide to making the attempt. In his
confession he also disclosed the names
of certain of his comrades who had
been selected to kill Queen Helena of Italy, President Loubet of France and
the czar of Russia.

Tailors' Strike Threatened.

New York, May 28.—The different unions in the tailoring trade in New York Brooklyn and Newark, N. J., have issued a notice to the manufacturers that they are preparing for a fight for the abolition of the middlemen in the clothing trades. If in a reasonable time the manufacturers do not provide shops for the tailors, they declare,
a general strike involving all the tail-
ing trades will be ordered.

Big Fire at Delaguna Bay.

Durban, May 28.—There has been a big fire at Delaguna Bay, and a block of the finest and most modern buildings was destroyed. This included the treasury building. Most of the records and documents which were stored in this building were burned.

Be Musician as Well as Singer.

Possessed of a voice, the first thing necessary, if one would be a singer, is to become a thorough musician. Select your teacher with great care, and having selected him, stick to him if you have faith
in him, and do not change your instructor
every two or three months.

When you begin to sing and know a little, do not go to a musical performance
to criticize your colleagues, but to learn.
Take the good away with you; for no matter how bad a singer may be there is always some good in him. Take the good, and leave the bad.

Try to improve all the time, and with that end always in view you will stand in no danger of getting an enlarged cranium.
You cannot expect to please the entire public; that would be impossible, but study out the faults.

Modesty is the chief thing with an artist. The greatest artists I have ever met have been the most modest.

I made my career with patience; I waited.—T. Campanari in Saturday Evening Post.

HIVE AND BEE.

Foundation should run about ten square feet to the pound.
Buckwheat is a good crop to grow,
especially for bee pasture.

Dividing bees into many divisions
early in the season is injurious.

Black bees may be easily changed to Italians by simply removing the black queen and introducing an Italian queen in her stead.

There is nothing in the world that will keep worms from getting into beehives unless you have the kind of bees
that will keep them out.

Another substance that bees carry is called propolis, or bee glue. It is used by the bees for stopping up crevices in the hives and for giving the inside a complete coating.

INSULAR SUITS DECIDED

Congress Can Legislate For Acquired Territory.

JUSTICE BROWN WRITES DECISION

Supreme Court Divided 5 to 4—Paller, Harlan, Brewer and Peckham Dissent—Foraker Resolution Declared Constitutional.

Washington, May 28.—The United States supreme court justices by a vote of 5 to 4 have sustained the constitution of the government that congress could legislate as it pleased for territory acquired by the United States.
Upon this fundamental question, sustaining the policy of the administration
and of congress to levy a special tariff duty on Porto Rico, Justice Brown delivered the opinion in what is known as the Downes case. He was supported by Justices Gray, Shiras, White and McKenna. The dissenters were Chief Justice Fuller and Justices Harlan,
Brewer and Peckham.

On the De Lima case, which related simply to the statutory construction whether Porto Rico ceased to be a foreign country after being ceded by the treaty with Spain, it was held that Porto Rico in its transitory stage was domestic territory, and therefore in that period all productions of the United States and of Porto Rico should have been exchanged free of duty.

In this position, oddly enough, the dissenting justices in the other case sided with Justice Brown, again
speaking for the majority. Thus Justice Brown was grouped with Chief Justice Fuller and Justices Harlan, Brewer and Peckham at one time and with Justices Gray, Shiras, White and McKenna at another. In both cases Justice Brown practically was the whole court. He had opposed to him and with him those with whose reasoning and position the others did not agree.

What Decisions Mean.

It is not necessary to go into more than the two cases named to make clear and definite what the supreme court decisions mean.

It is decided, first, that Porto Rico
was foreign territory during military occupation and up to the time when the ratifications of the treaty of peace
were exchanged.

Second.—That after the exchange of
the ratifications of the treaty of peace
and until congress acted it was domestic territory. All productions of the United States, therefore, went free into Porto Rico, and all productions of Porto Rico should come free into the United States.

Third.—It is decided that the United States consists only of the 13 original states and such other states as have since been added and that they had the right to legislate for any newly acquired territory.

Fourth.—That the Foraker law is constitutional.

Solicitor General Richards of the department of justice, who had charge of the insular cases before the supreme court, makes the following statement containing his interpretation of the decisions of the court:

"The important question involved in these cases was whether the cession of territory contained in the treaty of Paris made Porto Rico and the Philippines an integral part of the United States within the meaning of that provision of the constitution requiring 'all duties, imposts and excises to be uniform throughout the United States.'
The court held that the cession simply made Porto Rico and the Philippines
domestic territory of the United States,
subject to the full control of congress,
which control could be exercised without reference to those limitations. This limitation the court held was intended to apply to the states of the Union
and does not apply to acquired territory unless by treaty and by subsequent act of congress it is incorporated within and becomes an integral part of the United States. The decisions are substantially a victory for the government. They sustain to the fullest extent the so called insular policy of the administration. The government now has the sanction of the supreme court for governing these islands as their needs require.

Mr. Richards' Interpretation.

"The court holds that the constitution did not of its own force at once
apply to those ceded territories, placing their people, their products and their ports on an immediate equality
with ours and conferring upon them
all the rights, privileges and immuni-ties enjoyed by the people, products and ports of the several states. While their fundamental rights are preserved
by those underlying principles of the constitution which apply everywhere
the status of their citizens and the nature of the customs and commercial regulations are to be determined by congress in the exercise of the power vested by the constitution in congress to make all needful rules and regulations respecting territory belonging to the United States.

"Obviously what I have said regarding Porto Rico applies equally well to the Philippines, so that the president is perfectly free under the Spooner act to govern the Philippines as their needs
and their interests may require.
"At the same time that the court has sustained to the fullest extent the constitution of the government in these cases it has decided as a matter of statutory construction that the Dingley act could not be held to impose duties on goods brought from Porto Rico, because by cession Porto Rico became
domestic territory of the United States
and therefore ceased to be a 'foreign country.' The decisions of the court
call for no change in the administration of the law. The court did not decide what is known as the second Do-

Those Who Have Failed to Pay Their Dog License Must Face the Police Court.

Marshal Eastwile swore out five warrants this morning for the arrest of those who have attempted to evade the licensing of their dogs.

All of these persons will appear in the police court and answer to the complaint. Several of these have caused the special officer, Robert E. Hodgkins, considerable annoyance and on the presentation of the facts to the marshal, the warrants were at once issued.

The marshal will ask that whatever fine and costs may be imposed in these cases, be not suspended, but that an example be made of the men.

Four hundred and sixty-one dogs have thus far been licensed by their owners.

AT THE ANNUAL ATHLETIC MEET OF THE NAVAL CADETS ON SATURDAY REGINALD CARPENTER OF THIS CITY WON IN PUTTING THE SHOT AND THROWING THE HAMMER.

At the suggestion of Rear Admiral Barker, commandant at the New York navy yard, Acting Secretary Hackett has written a letter commending in warm terms the conception and execution of the ingenious plan for the replacement of the damaged turret gun on the Kearsarge, under the direction of Naval Constructor Capps, Commander Briggs and Lieutenant Commander Aaron Ward.

The correspondence is as follows: Admiral Barker wrote: "I desire to call the attention of the department to the excellent work done by the construction and ordnance departments in removing the damaged 13 inch gun from the Kearsarge and putting in the new gun."

"The work was begun on the 25th of April by Naval Constructor Capps. The big gun was out of the turret on the 15th of May, when there was a delay of removing it from the ship until the 17th, as the Pennsylvania railroad had not been able to get their special car ready to take the gun. On the 20th of May the new gun was put in the ship, and the whole work will be finished by the 29th of this month."

"I am happy to state that Naval Constructor Capps, Commander Briggs and Lieutenant Commander Aaron Ward worked hard, the naval constructor and Mr. Ward having on overalls and working at times like a mechanic."

"It is safe to say that the government's interests will not suffer when such officers are in charge of work. Indeed, all officers and men worked as though they were personally interested in the matter."

Acting Secretary Hackett replied as follows: "The department is in receipt of your letter of the 25th instant, commending the work done by the construction and ordnance departments of the navy yard under your command, in removing the thirteen-inch gun from the Kearsarge and putting in the new gun. The admirable execution of an ingenious plan of performing this novel and difficult work is properly commended by you. The department is gratified at the success that has crowned this undertaking. The work appears to have been done, not only effectively, but expeditiously. Its execution reflects great credit upon Naval Constructor Capps, and is a distinct gain to the credit of American ingenuity and skill. The department congratulates Naval Constructor Capps, as well as Commander Briggs and Lieutenant Commander Aaron Ward, for the skillful and faithful manner in which this most difficult duty has been performed. You will convey to each of these officers the thanks of the department."

Theories About Food

Also A Few Facts on the Same Subject.

We hear much nowadays about health foods and hygienic living, about vegetarianism and many other fads along the same line.

Restaurants may be found in the large cities where no meat, pastry or coffee is served and the food crank is in his glory, and arguments and theories galore advanced to prove that meat is never intended for human stomachs, and almost as many are believed that our sturdy ancestors who lived four score years in robust health on roast beef, pork and mutton must have been grossly ignorant of the laws of health.

Our forefathers had other things to do than formulate theories about the food they ate. A warm welcome was extended to any kind from bacon to acorns.

A healthy appetite and common sense are excellent guides to follow in matters of diet, and a mixed diet of grains, fruits and meats is undoubtedly the best.

As compared with grains and vegetables, meat furnishes the most nutriment in a highly concentrated form and is digested and assimilated more quickly than vegetables and grains.

Dr. Julius Remson on this subject says: "Nervous persons, people run down in health and of low vitality should eat meat and plenty of it. If the digestion is too feeble at first it may be easily corrected by the regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal. Two of these excellent tablets taken after dinner will digest several thousand grains of meat, eggs or other animal food in three hours, and no matter how weak the stomach may be, no trouble will be experienced if regular practice is made of using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets because they supply the pepsin and diastase necessary to perfect digestion, and every form of indigestion will be overcome by their use."

That large class of people who come under the head of nervous dyspeptics should eat plenty of meat and insure its proper digestion by the daily use of a safe harmless digestant medicine like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets composed of the natural digestive principles, pepsin, diastase, fruit acids and salts which actually perform the work of digestion. Cheap cathartic medicines masquerading under the names of dyspepsia cures are useless for indigestion as they have absolutely no effect upon the actual digestion of food.

Dyspepsia in all its many forms is simply a failure of the stomach to digest food and the sensible way to solve the riddle and cure the dyspepsia is to make daily use at meal time of a preparation like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which is endorsed by medical profession and known to contain active digestive principles.

All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at 50c. for full treatment.

PEARL STREET CHURCH.

The service as announced at the Pearl Street church Tuesday evening was of deep interest. It opened with a devotional service which was followed by a duet finely rendered by Mrs. Anne Hutchins and Miss Alice Hoyt.

Mr. Harry S. Myers of Hillsdale, Mich., then spoke for an hour holding the closest attention of the audience until the close.

He spoke of fitness for Christian work and the work to be done.

The fitness for work was named as personal piety, as developed by the use of the quiet hours in prayer, and close communication with God and bible study.

The work to be done may be divided into three departments, viz. The local home missions, and the foreign field. Each of these were developed in an interesting, instructive, and inspiring way.

After the address, Mrs. James H. Smith sang a solo in a very effective and pleasing manner.

CLIMATE AND CROP SERVICE.

New England Section of the Agricultural Department Report for the Week.

The statement of the weather and crop conditions of New England, compiled from the reports of correspondents of the New England section of the U. S. department of agriculture for the week ending May 27, is, in part, as follows:

The weather for the week, as a whole, has been unfavorable, an excess of cloudiness and rain, with low temperature delaying farm work. During the early part of the week it was cloudy with light rains, followed during the middle of the week by considerable sunshine and much higher temperature, but on the 24th the weather again became cold and wet, which conditions have since prevailed. While some correspondents state that, judging by fruit blossoms, the season varies but little from the average of the last 45 years, the majority report that in general work and crops the season is from one to two weeks later than the average.

While scattered light showers occurred in the early part of the week, the greater part of the rainfall was on and after the 24th, and was heaviest on the coast. The amounts for the week ranged from 1 inch at coast stations to .40 of an inch in the western portion of New England. The average rainfall for the week was .80 of an inch, .95 of an inch less than the average for the corresponding week of last year.

The continuance of cloudy weather and rain has delayed plowing, plowing and work. The low temperature has made the growth of planted crops slow, both in germination and growth after coming up. Many correspondents state that "nothing grows but grass." Low land continues so wet it cannot be worked, and warm, drying weather is much needed in all parts of the district to permit the progress of farm work and for the best growth of crops. Sowing has been completed with a good "catch," the moist weather being favorable for the germination of grass and grain. Planting has been finished, except where the ground is too wet.
